

Reports say that it's been the hottest April in 10 years, with sun seekers packing beaches and parks all over Britain, however fun seekers have been packing the Bunny Run Series making it the hottest place to be on a normally boring Tuesday evening. The weather broke here, with the rain making the parched ground a little 'tricksey' in places but it still didn't deter 223 hard core Bunny Runners. Bunny fame has even spread across the water to sunny California USA, wanting to sample fell running Professor Allen Doyle running for Golden Valley Harriers took time out from lecturing at Bradford University to finish 100th overall in 21-28. English folk are renowned for their eccentricity, well the Bunnies just confirmed it to Allen with the normal Bunny prize giving madness and chocolate throw out, he was awarded two bottles of unique Bunny Beer to take back across the pond, one extra because believe it or not his wife is called, BUNNY! 2006 FRA Fellrunner cover girl, Blue Haywood is red hot at the moment and made it four straight wins in both the Egg Stage and the individual races to win the series for the third time, and be immortalised on the beer bottle label for next years event along with Ian Holmes. 17 year old Blue has now won seven Bunnies, which ties her with Pauline Munro in the title stakes, ahead of Carol Greenwood six, Sarah Rowell five and Sharon Taylor four with the top honour here going to Kath Drake with ten wins. If Blue has the inclination to go for more she certainly has got time on her side. Just 23 seconds behind Blue was Emily Klee from Leeds City who improved to second place from third last week, with first FU16 Emma Spencer in third. A ritual of the prize giving now is that all the runners packed in the Old Sun Hotel shout BO BO when the FU14 winner is announced, 12 year old Bo Haywood takes all this in her stride, and even excitedly jumped up and down at registration when she was issued with the elite number BO BO. 30 year old Willy Smith won his fourth Bunny after being pushed all the way by 32 year old Adam Osborne. Willy just couldn't wait to get his hands on the case of Bunny Beer he was presented with in recognition of winning the series last year, as the label featured a 'shy retiring' picture of himself. Fell runners are renowned as a hard breed, well you can't get much harder than 28 year old Graham Pearce, who only 3 days prior had finished a magnificent 4th in the Three Peaks classic fell race, here he was determined to win the short sharp Egg Stage prize. His legs nearly faltered as Willy chased him down, but he just had enough in his sore and tired legs to hold on to win in 3-29, and then managed to hold it together to finish a creditable 10th. It was a long haul in the pub with BR4 prizes and then overall prizes being awarded, but the race video kept many amused, and by the time the chocolate throw out began it was still standing room only. Well done to all you die hard Bunny Runners for making it the event it is, and to the unsung heroes – our helpers – Emily, Shirley, Sam and Paul Wood, Carol and Michael Fryer, Jemma and Lawrence Basham, Wendy and Molly Holder, David Bailey, Sophie Brown and our very own 'runny egg', Holly Crossfield, who presented you all with your yummy Cadbury's crème Eggs.
